

- Establish and maintain a relationship of mutual trust and confidence with the host country's establishment.
- Develop security assistance plans and programs in coordination with the chief of the US diplomatic mission and other elements of the country team for submission to the unified command. This is done under the supervision of the commander of the unified command and must be consistent with DOD policies and country objectives and financial guidelines.
- Keep the ASD/ISA, DSAA, JCS, unified commands, component commands, and military departments, as appropriate, informed of security assistance activities in-country.
- Report on the host country's use of defense articles and services provided as grant aid.
- Assist the host government in arranging for purchase of defense articles and services to meet valid country requirements through FMS and commercial sales.
- Assist the DSAA and the military departments, as requested, in carrying out FMS negotiations with foreign governments.
- When appropriate, cooperate with and assist representatives of US firms in the sale of US defense articles and services to meet valid country requirements.
- Assist US military departments and their subordinate elements in arranging for the receipt, transfer, and acceptance of security assistance materiel, training, and other services in their country of assignment.
- Assist the host government in the identification, administration, and proper disposition of security assistance materiel that is excess to current needs. This will require reporting any unauthorized transfer of defense articles of US origin to third countries.
- Through the use of MTTs, TAFTs, and TATs, provide advisory services and technological assistance to the host country on security assistance matters. In developing nations provide advisory services, technical assistance, and training to develop a realistic capability to plan, program, budget, and manage the military resources of the host country.
- When requested by appropriate authority, act as channel of communications for the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Installations and Logistics) regarding production, research, and development and other logistical activities involving the United States and the government to which accredited.
- Perform such other functions as may be set forth in the MAAG's particular TERMS OF REFERENCE or otherwise directed by competent authority.
